SYNOPSIS

Sherlock Holmes

Woman in Green

Female murder victims are found with their right fingers missing, and it's up to Sherlock Holmes to find a motive behind these seemingly random acts of violence.

Dressed to Kill

Innocent purchasers of cheap music boxes begin turning up dead, and Sherlock Holmes believes this has something to do with some stolen Bank of England plates.

Sherlock Holmes and the Secret Weapon

As if Moriarty wasn't enough, Holmes must also take on the Nazis in a rave to control an evil professor's secret military weapon, which could spell defeat for the Allies.

Terror By Night

Holmes is hired to prevent the theft of the Star of Rhodesia, an enormous diamond owned by Lady Margaret.

Once Upon A Book

Jane Eyre

This film chronicles Jane's life from a spirited orphan of ten, enduring the cruelties of the orphanage to her days as governess in the somber, tension-filled atmosphere where she and Rochester fall in love.

Anna Karenina

Leo Tolstoy's powerful tale of love and marriage in imperial Russia. A story of illicit love between the wife of a Russian aristocrat and a military officer.

Decameron Nights

Three stories based on Italian writer Giovanni Boccaccio's legendary portrayals of bawdy medieval romance. A neglected wife is happy to be abducted by a lusty pirate, a husband wagers on his spouse's faithfulness, and a woman doctor plans to wed a king's courtier, against his protests.

David Copperfield

The film follows the familiar tale of the boy and the outcome after being orphaned at a young age.

Film Noir Vol. 2

Quicksand

The story revolves around motor mechanic Dan Brady who lacks funds for a heavy date with new waitress Vera, the type whose life's ambition is a fur coat; so he embezzles twenty dollars from his employer.

The Scar

A sleazy ex-med student and con artist discovers a psychiatrist who, except for a scar on his face, is the crook's double.

The Man with the Golden Arm

Frank Sinatra starred as a former drug addict in this wonderful tense film noir thriller directed by Otto Preminger. Co-starring Eleanor Parker and Kim Novak, Sinatra plays Frankie Machine, a skilled card dealer and one-time heroin addict. When he returns home from jail, he struggles to find a new livelihood and to avoid slipping back into addiction.

Too Late for Tears

One night on a lonely highway, a speeding car tosses a satchel of money, meant for somebody else, into Jane and Alan Palmer's back seat.

SYNOPSIS

Big Garage: Friends

Welcome to the Big Garage:

Everyone is excited a new taxi, Mimi, is coming to join the team at The Big Garage. When they all finally meet, the gang learns how much fun it can be to make and accept new friends!

London's Funny Horn:

London needs to use a temporary parade horn while his regular horn is being fixed. In the end, the gang learns to appreciate everybody's qualities, and being different can sometimes make all the difference.

Big Garage: Sharing

Share and Share Alike:

Gas Pump sends Yorky on a run to the country, but before he leaves The Big Garage, Pump advises him to fill up his tank and he refuses. He runs out of gas and is stranded in the country. The gang at The Big Garage saves the day by sharing their Petrol with Yorky so he can get back to The Big Garage.

Blow Your Horn:

Yorky has the coolest horn, but only takes it out on special occasions. Yorky discovers the horn is missing, panics and takes off in a search for it. London tries to put the horn back without anyone seeing, but can't and so he must tell his friend the truth.

Big Garage: Using Your Imagination

Just Along for the Ride:

Rusty, the tow truck, mistakes a sleeping Yorky as part of the trash and starts towing him to Scrapland. The other taxis see how much fun Yorky was having while being towed that they all pretend to be broken so they can have a turn getting towed by Rusty.

You Better Believe It:

Zigzag is really excited. She is waiting for the tire fairy to bring her a new tire. She doesn't know if the tire fairy is for real or just a made up story for the younger taxis to believe in. Zigzag and the other taxis have to decide for themselves; what's more fun... to believe or not to believe?

SYNOPSIS

The documentary 'Anger Me' is the story of the life, literary and motion-picture accomplishments of Kenneth Anger, a pivotal figure in the history of experimental film.

An innovator and a pioneer, he literally blazed his own trail. Considered to be one of the major personalities of the 1960's and 1970's underground art scene, Kenneth defined himself as a "cinematographic magician" and his "cinema" as a ritualistic form.

Anger's films have taken audiences to places where only great film poets can arrive.

Only Johnny can see the Dead. His daily walk to school involves a short-cut through a run-down Victorian cemetery.

On the day Johnny learns that the cemetery has been sold to property developers, the Dead appear before him and appeal to him to save their home.

To save the cemetery, a hastily-organized campaign is put into action by Johnny involving local newspaper archives, a public meeting and a confrontation with hired thugs.

As the campaign progresses, the Dead, cautiously at first, venture out of the cemetery and into the outside world.

In a remote and idyllic forest a group of six young men and women are growing an illegal field of marijuana.

In Washington, the head of an agency authorizes the forest area to be sprayed by "Dromax," a defoliant not fully tested but feared to have bizarre side effects. The farmers are caught in the spray, and are turned into bloodthirsty ghouls bent on cannibalism.

Cole is touring the forest with his wife and brother. Also in the forest is a family of four, one a retarded youth, a hermit, a farmer and others. All are threatened by the crazed marijuana farmers and the result is murder and mayhem!

SYNOPSIS

Something very strange has happened to the life of Jackie Granville - while driving in her car she suddenly finds herself transported forty years into the past!

Glenn Miller tunes and wartime news bulletins drift from her radio. In total confusion she strays into a nearby field and witnesses a murder...

In a state of shock she runs to her car, which on starting, mysteriously transports her back into the 1980's.

On reporting the murder, investigations by the police find no trace of a body, but they do uncover records of a murder committed 40 years previously.

The police dismiss Jackie's report as pure imagination.

Together with her boyfriend Jackie sets out to investigate her inexplicable experience.

SYNOPSIS

The continuation of Edgar Reitz's milestone film epic, HEIMAT 3 takes the story of the Simon Family into the modern era with the same passion and attention to character as the first two series.

Hermann and Clarissa, the star-crossed lovers of Heimat II meet in a hotel on the evening of the fall of the Berlin Wall. Caught up in the euphoria over the reunification of their country, the couple reunite as well.

They settle in a romantic old house high above the Rhine Valley in the Hunsruck, which draws family and friends from far and wide. The 200-year-old, timber-framed house acts as a hub for the characters, whose stories of love, success, family, and death unfold amidst the uncertainty of the changing times.

A wonderful successor to the previous series, HEIMAT 3 demonstrates Reitz's mastery of the long-form serial.

SYNOPSIS

A delinquent girl escapes from a reformatory and hides out on a plantation.

Once there, she uses her feminine wiles to tempt others and turns the orderly domestic lives of those around her into a frenzied chaos.

This powerful melodrama anticipates such Buñuel classics as TRISTANA and THAT OBSCURE OBJECT OF DESIRE.

This film, like many others by Buñuel, uses the power of eroticism to reveal the hypocrisies of modern society.

PASSION AND POLITICS

* "...Aleksander Ford and Leonard Buczkowski...the best of the early Polish directors..."

-Michael Jon Stoil, CINEMA BEYOND THE DANUBE

SYNOPSIS

From the pages of history comes this dramatic tale of forbidden passion and political intrigue by veteran Polish filmmaker Leonard Buczkowski (Treasure).

In 1807, Napoleon meets and falls in love with 22-year-old Polish countess Marie Walewska, who is unhappily married to a much older man. Enchanted by the blonde, blue-eyed countess, the emperor begins a passionate affair.

More than just a pretty face, Marie uses the relationship to induce Napoleon to treat her country fairly.

MARIA AND NAPOLEON represents the mature work of filmmaker Buczkowski, who was greatly respected for directing Forbidden Songs, the first film from the Polish film industry after World War II.

SYNOPSIS

The art of architecture comes alive in this collection of short films on the world's most pivotal examples of architectural construction.

Each segment focuses on a structure chosen for its unique aesthetic and for the extraordinary role it has played in the evolution of architectural design.

Each building or site is explored from top to bottom, examined from the foundation to the roof, and dissected from model to completed structure.

The Alhambra in Grenada, the House of Sugimoto, the Reception and Congress Building in Rome, the Yoyogi Olympic Gymnasiums, the Villa Barbaro, and the Phaeno not only presented practical problems for the architects who designed them but also inspired their creativity.

Explore the roots of their ambition and inspiration with ARCHITECTURES VOLUME 5.

SYNOPSIS

Jerzy Stuhr - Poland's most beloved actor - stars as Gustav, a Krakow professor who is roped into showing a visiting Swedish professor around town.

The randy Swede soon tires of Gustav's dull dissertations on Polish heroes and suggests looking for female companionship, but the task proves beyond the skills of the shy academic.

Eventually, Gustav calls Isa, an old girlfriend from his distant past who was writing a dissertation on the mating habits of geese the last time they spoke. While Isa is not what the Swede had in mind, Gustav sees his old flame through the rose-colored glasses of time.
